How to review your website concept preview

Prepared by Flywheel Advertising · June 26, 2026 · thebarringtonschool.com

This guide accompanies your interactive concept preview — a single web page that lets you move between five redesign concepts for The Barrington School. Below is what you've received, the two creative directions we're exploring, and exactly how to navigate and review them.

— WHAT YOU'VE RECEIVED

01 One interactive preview

A single file, `barrington-concept-preview.html` — opens in any browser, no internet required.

02 Five concepts

Three homepage directions and two Jerome Village location-page directions.

03 Two creative directions

A built-in switcher keeps each page paired to one direction as you explore.

04 This guide

How to navigate, plus what we'd love your feedback on.

— THE TWO CREATIVE DIRECTIONS

Direction A — Editorial / Warm

● EDITORIAL

An elevated, magazine-style treatment: a refined serif paired with a warm ivory-and-champagne palette. Aspirational and boutique. This direction intentionally steps away from the 2021 Brand Book typeface and navy palette — a creative choice worth discussing.

Direction B — Brand-Faithful / Navy

● ON-BRAND

Built directly on the Barrington Brand Book — Raleigh type and the navy, blue, and baby-blue palette. The most complete and most brand-consistent option of the set.

Why two directions? Rather than guess, we've built one option that honors the existing brand exactly, and one that pushes it toward a more premium, editorial feel — so you can react to a real range before we refine a single direction to final design.

THE FIVE CONCEPTS

Three homepages, two location pages

Each concept is labeled with its direction and a version tag (the same labels appear in the preview's switcher).

HOMEPAGE

LOCATION — JEROME VILLAGE

Paired by design. When you switch between Homepage and Location in the preview, it keeps you in the same creative direction (Direction A stays with A, B with B) — so each journey reads as one coherent site rather than a mix. You can still compare the variants within a single page freely.

A NOTE ON IMAGERY & COPY

These concepts now use your real Jerome Village photography and the official Barrington logo suite. Headlines and body copy are written to read naturally but remain easy to revise — treat them as a strong starting point, not final text. The video-hero homepage (V2.5) uses a placeholder background video to be replaced with Barrington footage.

— HOW TO NAVIGATE THE PREVIEW

Six things to know

- 1 Open the file. Double-click `barrington-concept-preview.html`. It opens in your default browser (Chrome, Edge, or Safari all work). Keep the `assets` folder beside it.
- 2 Choose a page type. Use the top tabs to switch between Homepage and Location — Jerome Village.
- 3 Switch concepts. The chips below the tabs change the design variant. The colored dot shows its direction — green = on-brand, gold = editorial — and the note line describes it.
- 4 Check responsive sizes. The Desktop / Tablet / Mobile toggle resizes the preview so you can see how each concept adapts to phones and tablets.
- 5 Open full-screen. The Open button pops the current concept into its own browser tab at full width.
- 6 Share an exact view. The address bar updates as you browse (e.g. `#home-v24/tablet`). Copy it to send a colleague the exact concept and screen size.

— WHAT WE'D LOVE YOUR FEEDBACK ON

- Direction first. Between Editorial / Warm (A) and Brand-Faithful / Navy (B), which feels more like Barrington?
- The hero. Does the opening headline and image set the right tone for a parent's first impression?
- The details. The "what's included" cards, programs, and testimonials — anything to add, cut, or reword?
- Brand fit. Anything that feels off-brand, or any must-have we've missed.

The simplest way to send notes: reference each concept by its version tag (e.g. `v2.4`), or mark up a screenshot. We'll consolidate your feedback and refine to a single direction for final design.
